If With Pleasure
You Are Viewing
Any Work A Man Is Doing,
If You Like Him
Or You Love Him,
Tell Him Now;

Don't Withhold Your Approbation
Till The Parson Makes
Oration
And He Lies With Snowy Lilies
On His Brow;

No Matter How
You Shout It
He Won't
Really Care
About It;

He Won't Know
How Many Teardrops
You Have Shed;

If You Think
Some Praise Is Due
Him
Now's The Time
To Slip It To Him,

For He Cannot Read His Tombstone
When He's Dead.

More Than Fame And More Than Money Is The Comment Kind And Sunny

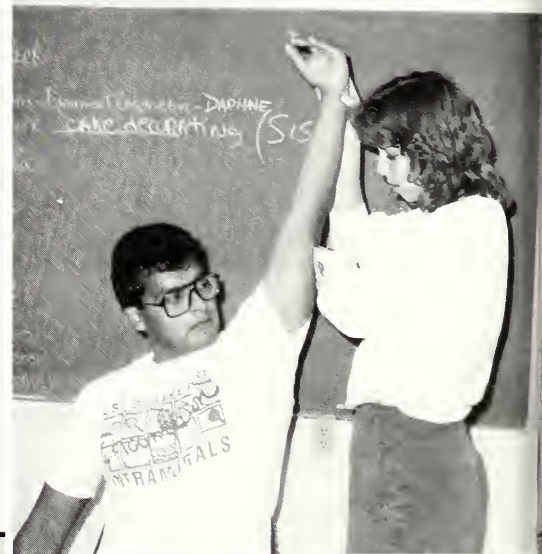

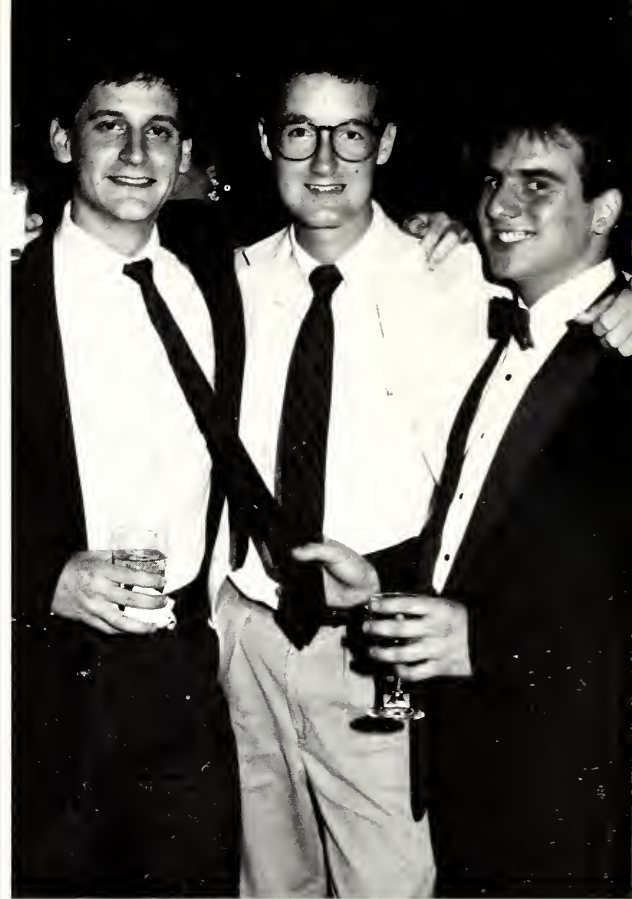

And The Hearty,
Warm Approval
Of A Friend.

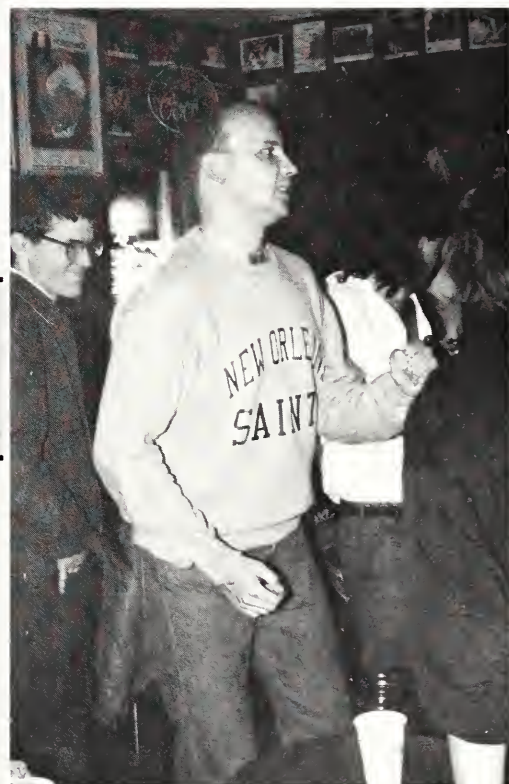

For It Gives To Life
A Savor,
And It Makes You
Stronger, Braver

And It Gives
You
Heart And Spirit
To The End;

If He Earns
Your Praise —
Bestow it;
If You Like Him
Let Him Know It;
Let The Words Of True
Encouragement Be Said;

Do Not Wait Till Life
Is Over And He's Underneath The Clover,
For He Cannot Read His Tombstone When He's Dead.

EVENTS

Back To School

Once again, with registration completed, the new school year was ready to begin. The Red Beans and Rice party has become a tradition during the week of registration, and 1989 was no exception for this affair. Sponsored by Dean Williams and the LSUMC Administration, the medical school courtyard was filled with the aroma of red beans and rice, and the sound of the "Scut Boys". All who participated walked away with full stomachs and the anticipation of beginning another year at LSUMC.

Black Jack ... Dice ... Roulette Wheels ... and Lady Luck!!! All these were a part of the LSUMC annual Casino Night. Until eleven o'clock, the tables were filled with anxious black jack winners, risky dice throwers, and gambling roulette players. When all the chips were down and the tables were closed, Lady Luck stood by only a few BIG winners. The remainder of the night, entertainment by Mickey Honeycutt and her band helped dance the night away ... leaving only memories of clacking chips until next year.

CASINO NIGHT

Christmas Party

After intensive study, long nights, loss of sleep, and unexplained weight loss, Christmas vacation has always been a well-deserved and anxiously awaited two weeks. Before the mass exodus to home and mama's cooking, the LSUMC Christmas Party is a function attended by those who want to celebrate the end of the semester with the people who fought through it with them. Even Santa makes an appearance. Decorated with balloons and festive decor, the Bossier Civic Center housed the celebrating medical students before their travels home. It was Merry Christmas and the beginning of a Happy new Year.

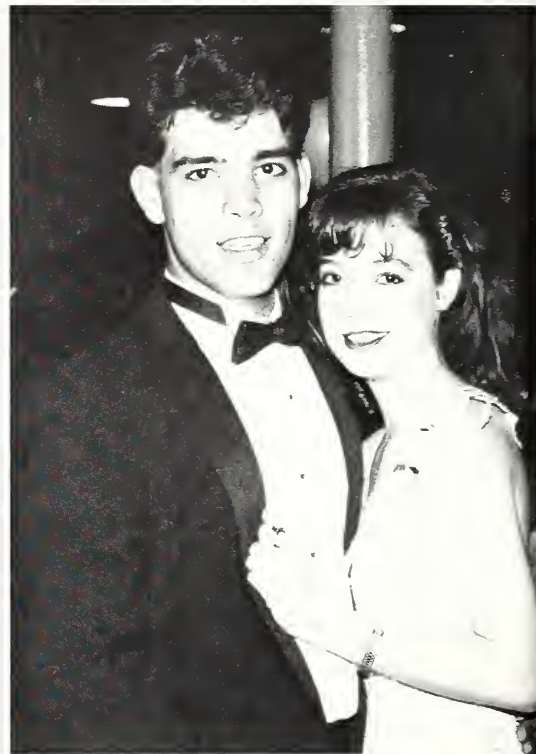

CADAVER BALL

Tradition remained intact this school year. As the freshmen class of 1990 finally approached the end of Gross Anatomy, plans were already in the works for the annual Cadaver Ball.

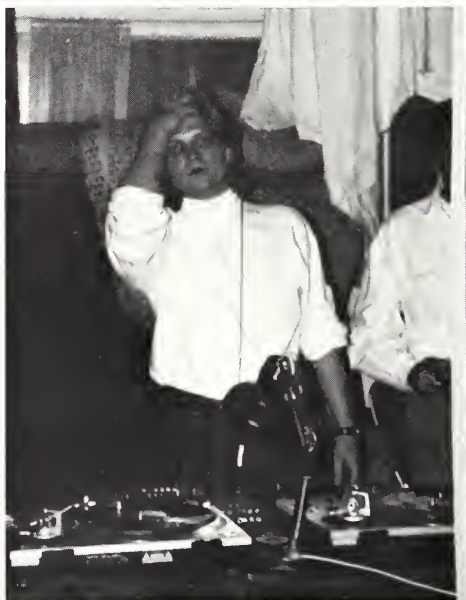

Entertainment and "spirits" were partaken of at Jodie's Place in downtown Shreveport. These were not the spirits of the recent cadavers used for dissection, but those spirits well-deserved and needed to aid in celebrating the completion of the Right of Passage known as Gross Anatomy. All enjoyed and all were relieved to finish the long road of the first year of medical school.

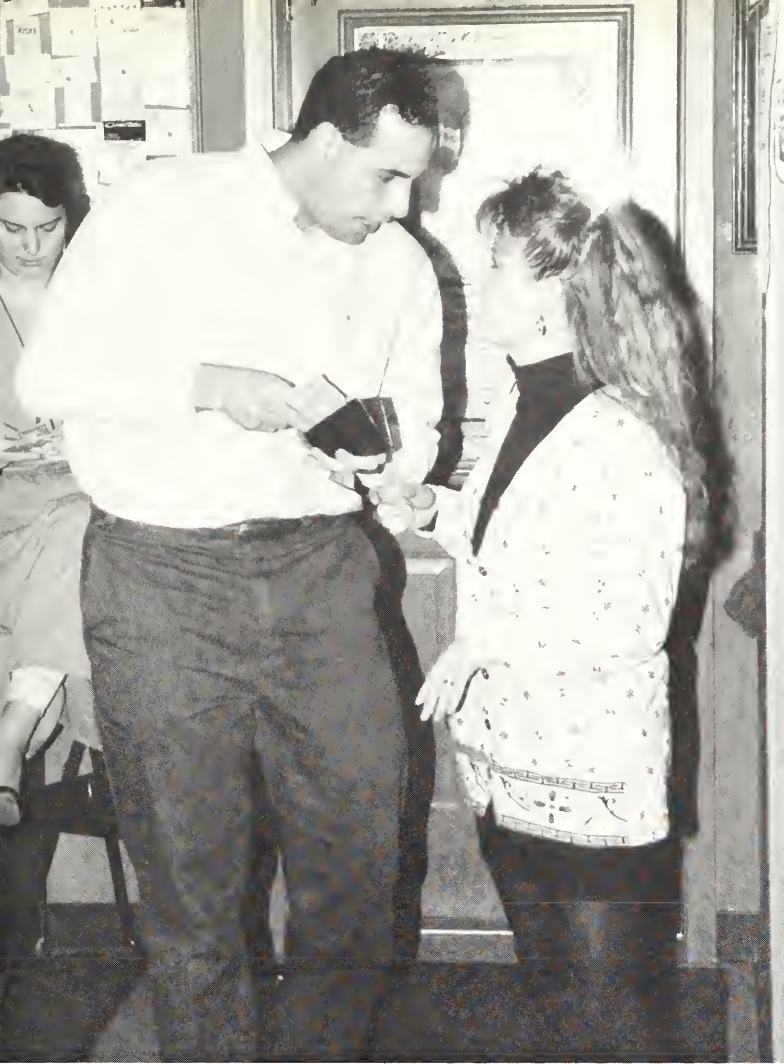

Miscellaneous

Whenever time allows, parties—either private or school-wide—were planned for relaxation as well as winding down from intensive examination preparation. Whether at different apartments for LSU Tiger football or basketball games, Halloween parties, or at the Student Center, TGIF'S and parties were popular functions to "forget about it all". Not only were these functions fun, they were also necessary for maintenance of sanity and psyche.

Crawfish Boil

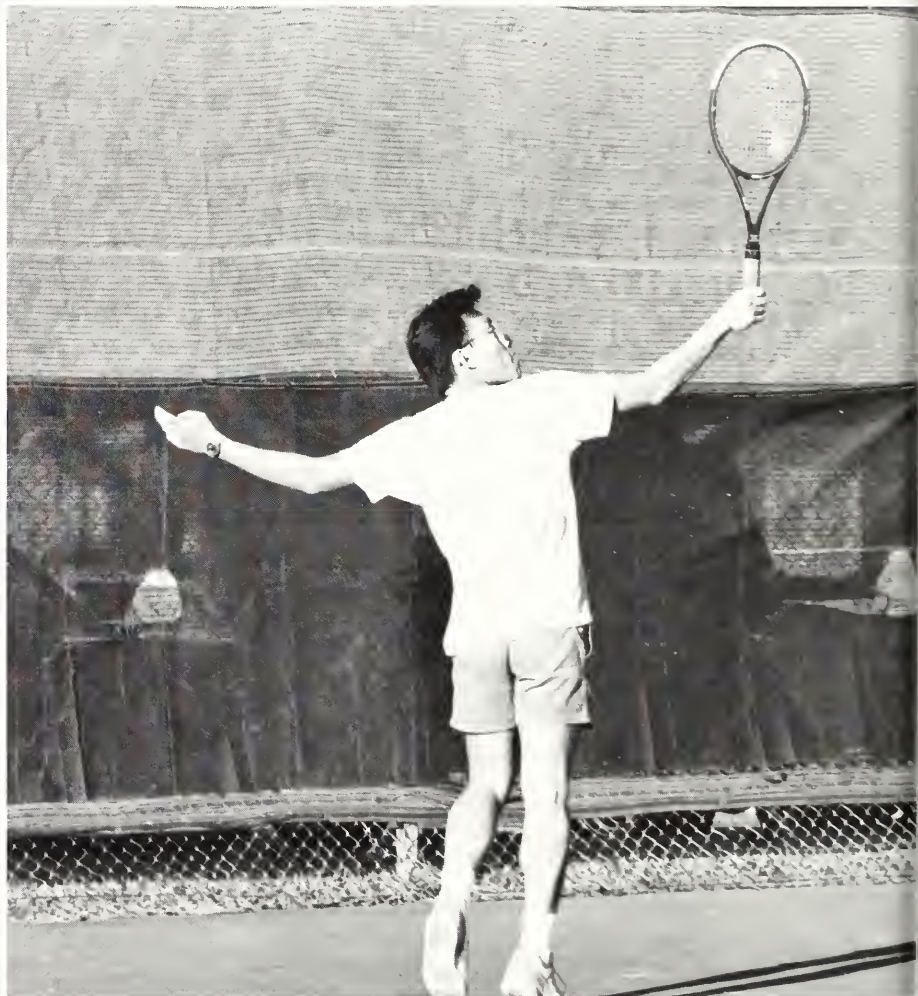

Spring arrived once again and with it came refreshing weather as well as the opportunities for annual spring activities. One function always anxiously awaited is the LSUMC Crawfish Boil. As the hours progressed towards noon and as the temperature rose on Sat., April 21, 1990, the set-up crew was already busy preparing for the festivities at the 40 & 8 Club. The crawfish, potatoes, and corn were cooked — HOT and SPICY. The student body indulged themselves with SPICY Crawfish, HOT music by Chris Belleau, and COOL, COOL beer. When everyone was stuffed with crawfish, filled with beer, and burned from the sun and spices, the annual Crawfish Boil came to an end with a sigh of success.

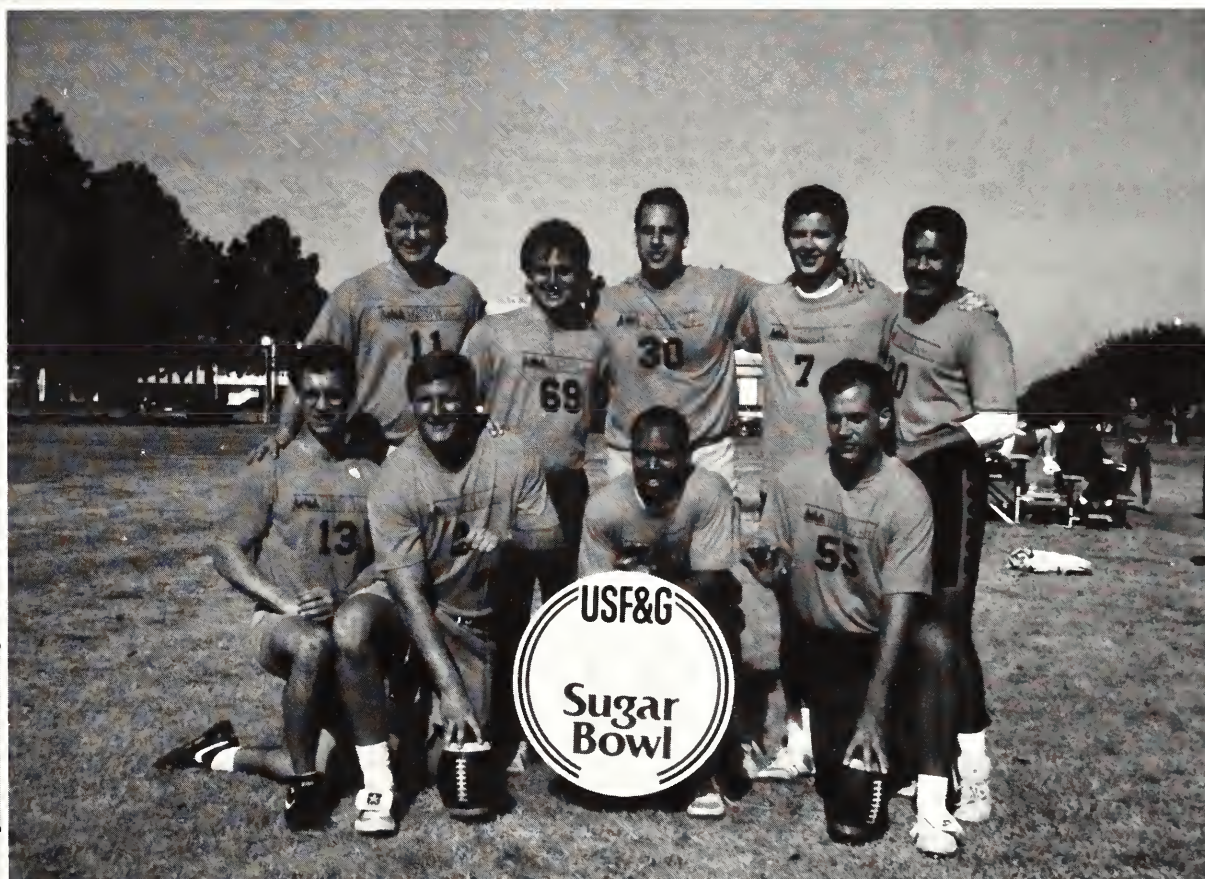

INTRAMURALS

As always LSUMC students were able to get away from their studies and head out to LSUMC in order to participate in intramural football, basketball, baseball, volleyball, as well as other activities. The sporting adventures continue to be a popular form of relaxation, provide a great release of built up stress and anxiety and produce some heated and intense competition. Whoever said that doctors were nonathletic?

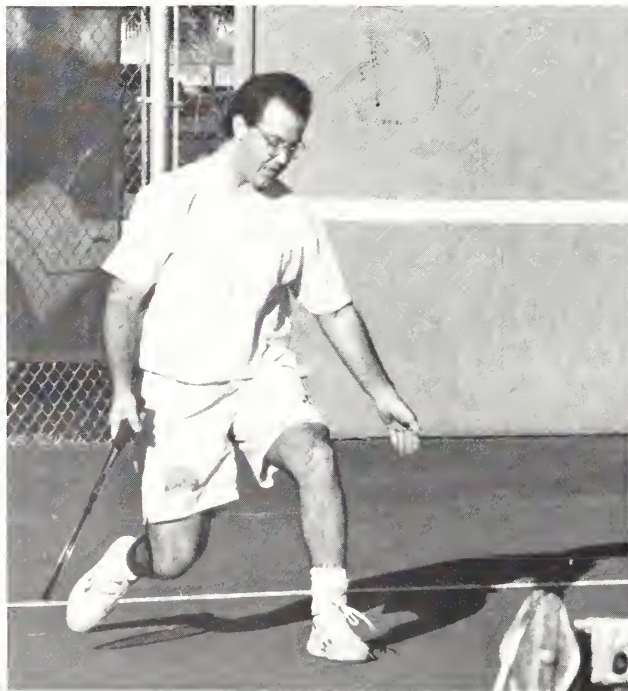

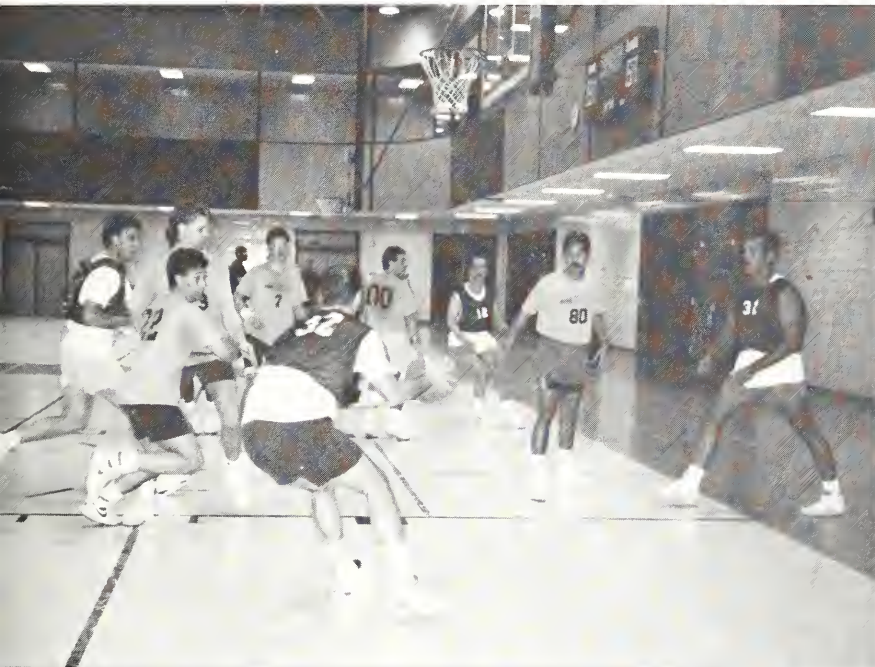

1989
LSUMC
CHAMPS

Air Charter was sent to New Orleans to represent LSUMC in the 1989 National Intramural Football Championships. The team began as one of over 130 teams from all over the nation. They would go on to win the first three games played and still be in tournament competition with 31 other teams before losing to the University of Florida. It was a great opportunity to play football with the best teams in the nation and to finally lose to the team that would go on to become the National Champs. That always makes a loss a little easier to live with.

TIGER TROT

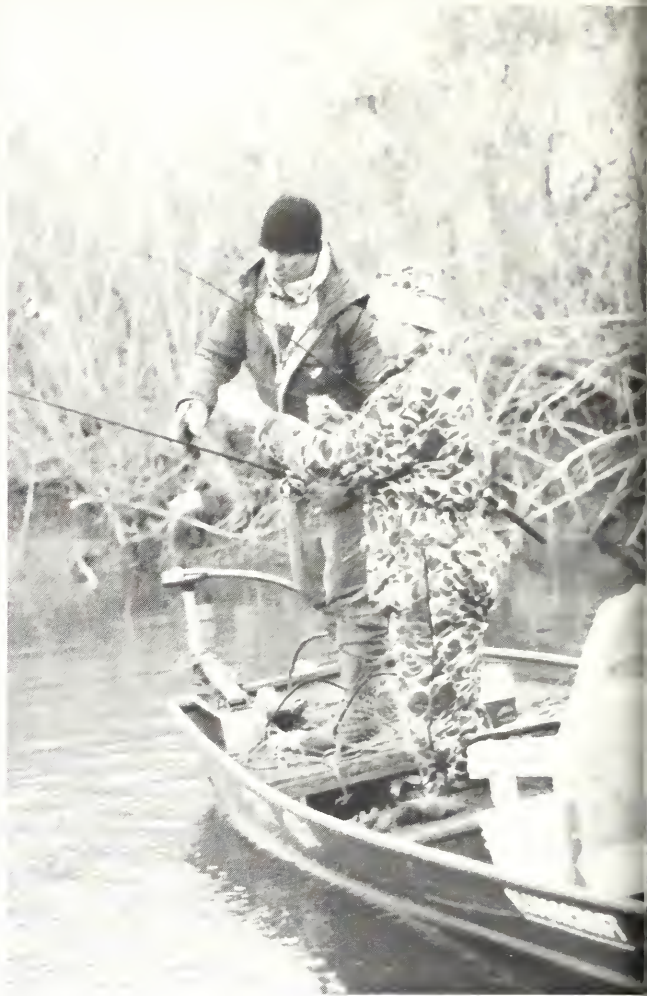

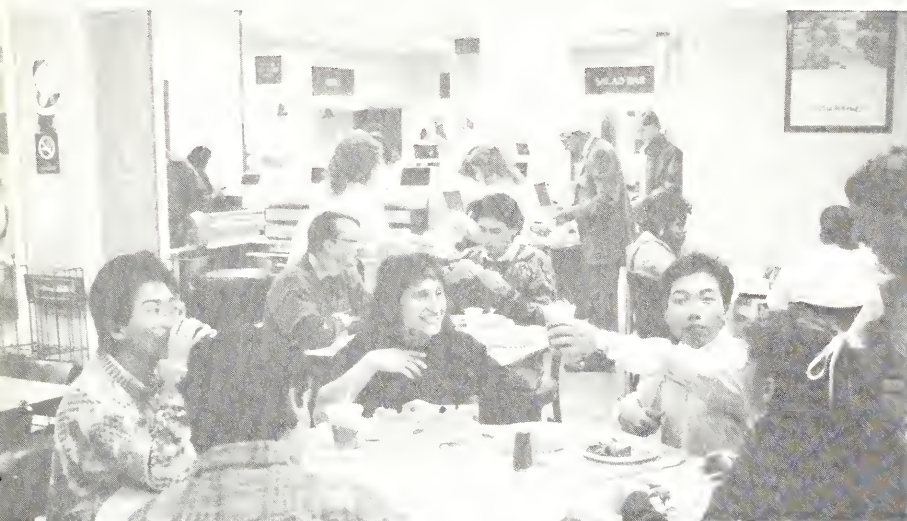

As tradition, the Executive Council of the LSU Medical Center sponsored the annual Tiger Trot. This year, Oak Tree Savings and Loan was the co-sponsor for the annual 5K and 10K races. People from the communities of Shreveport and Bossier participated in the races. The ages of the participants ranged from 10 years of ages to over 55. Several LSUMC students as well as staff members ran in the races. Those LSUMC participants who won trophies included: Michelle Boatwright (first in the 5K for women ages 20-29), Penny Megison (First in the 10K for women ages 20-29), Terry Davis (first in the 10K for women ages 40-49), and Jude Bares (first in the 10K for men ages 19-29). Other LSU participants included Dr. Warren Grafton, Dr. Jack Ward, Chris Courtney, and John Leprix. All who either participated or who helped with the Tiger Trot enjoyed the race and look forward to next year's competition.

Break Time

Either from numbness of the legs or from total fatigue of brain cells, time out of class or even between classes remained a necessary element at LSUMC. Break time took the form of TV watching, spending time at local happy hours, and even sleeping on the floor of the LSUMC Library. As long as the medical center exists, time away from the responsibility of studying will always be a necessary part of the medical education.

EXECUTIVE COUNCIL

The Executive Council of the Student Body consists of four officers: President, Vice-President, Secretary, and Treasurer. There are two representatives from each medical school class, allied health school and graduate school. All social functions, including the Christmas Party, Crawfish Boil, Casino Party, Tiger Trot, and Family Day are planned and sponsored by the Executive Council. Additionally, the Council handles various administrative duties from budgeting the student funds to battling the LSU bureaucracy for curriculum changes and football tickets.

AMA-MSS

The AMA-MSS represents the medical student membership of the American Medical Association, and addresses the concerns and needs of this student population in two ways.

First, the AMA-MSS provides luncheon lectures from speakers who address various students oriented topics.

Second, the AMA-MSS also provides students with an avenue to project student concepts into viable subjects for possible legislation.

BIOMEDICAL RESEARCH INSTITUTE

In the fall of 1989, the plans for the new Biomedical Research Institute were announced officially to the Louisiana State University Medical Center. The Biomedical Research Institute will promote the recruitment and retention of world-class scientific talent, and enable Louisiana to contribute significantly to federal biomedical research programs operated by the National Institutes of Health, the National Science Foundation, the Department of Energy, and other federal Agencies. The Institute will enhance the development of High-quality medical teaching programs and an outstanding regional health care delivery system. The Institute will produce and increase flow of both private and federal research dollars into Northwest Louisiana, attract more and better qualified applicants to the School of Medicine, and foster increased cooperative research with local and national industries. The outcomes of research conducted at the Institute are expected to lead to important advances in medical treatments and diagnostics related to cardiovascular disease, molecular biology, and neurobiology. The Biomedical Research Institute will not only be a great asset to Louisiana State University Medical Center, but it will also prove to be a success for the entire state of Louisiana.

THE PULSE

Although the main objective of LSUMC is to teach the art of medicine to those qualified and willing to learn, there is also another responsibility of the medical center — to aid in the shaping of human personalities and souls. This type of task comes from hours of hard work in not only required course and clinical work, but also in extracurricular activities. The Pulse is just one of many opportunities offered to the student body for this purpose. Each year, the Pulse is created and produced by a handful of students willing to put forth extra hours to keep alive those things which add "extras" to LSUMC.

Therefore, the 1990 Pulse is dedicated to all students who are involved in extracurricular activities which help make LSUMC not only a teaching center, but also a creative, molding, humanistic force. This book is especially dedicated to the Class of 1990 who has kept the Pulse alive through the editorships of Dale Guillory (Pulse 1987), Kim Rehder (Pulse 1988), and Penny Megison (Pulse 1989 & 1990). Great thanks to each and everyone!!

MATCH DAY

The patient was a 22 y.o. senior student with the chief complaints of insomnia, headaches, anorexia, nausea, and inability to function on a daily basis. After extensive workup, this student was found to have PMS (pre-Match syndrome). This condition was cured instantly at eleven o'clock a.m. March 21, 1990 by administering one legal sized envelope revealing the results of the 1990 MATCH. Seniors jumped with joy during the fifteen minute time period it took to hand out all of the Match envelopes. New residencies ranged from Internal Medicine to Anesthesia and spanned the continental United States from California to Iowa. Celebration continued at Centenary Oyster House with a party from 2-5 p.m. Cajun fare and beer aided in satisfying hungry bellies and stress-stricken brains. By 5:30 p.m. the party at Centenary Oyster House was over, but celebrating lasted for many nights and the excitement of new jobs and new homes remained in the air.

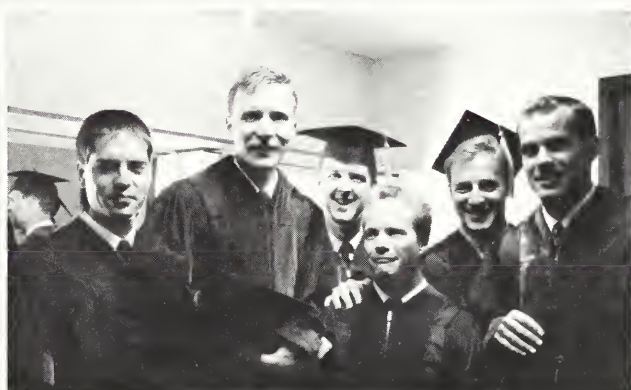

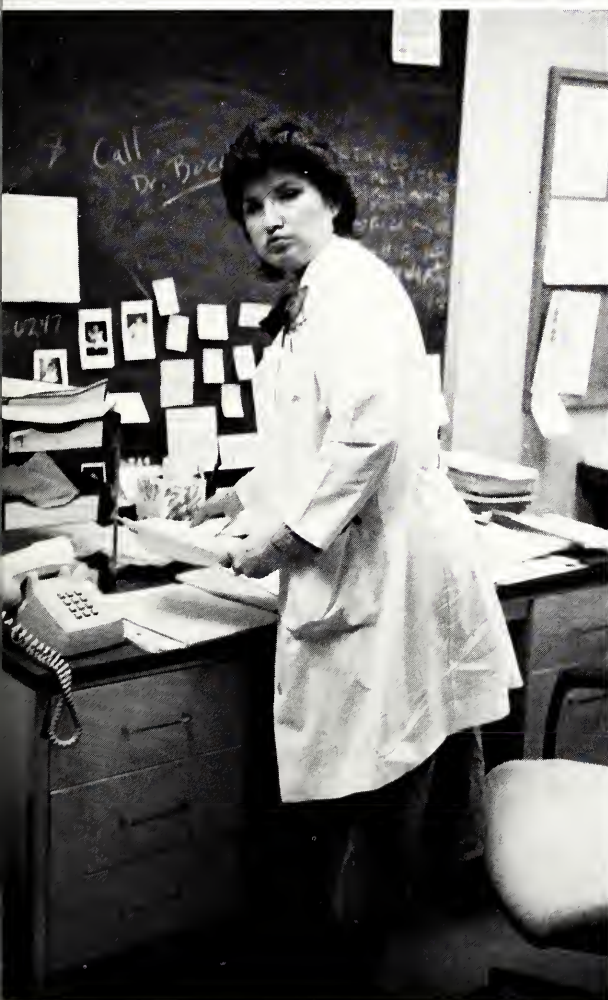

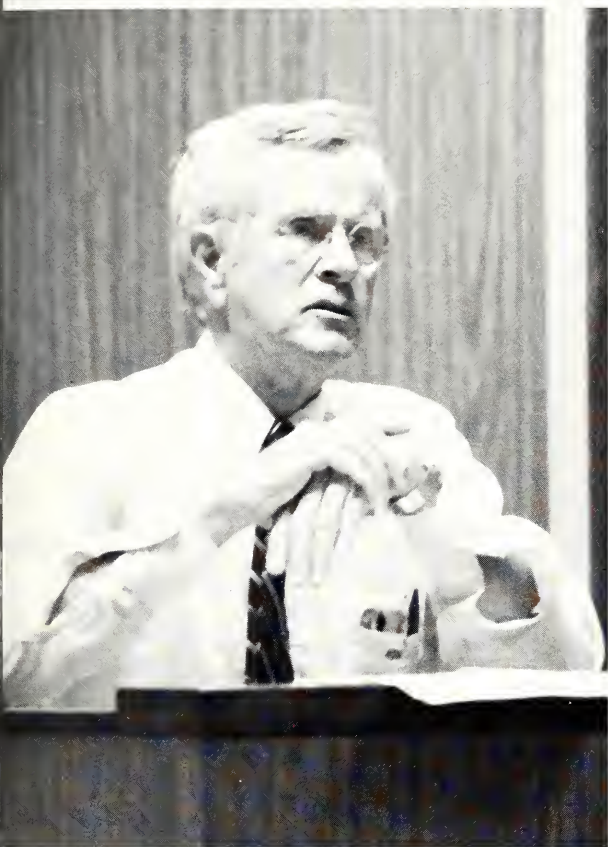

GRADUATION

Graduation. A celebration of achievement. And what a celebration it was !! The festivities began May 31, 1990 with a reception given by Dean Williams at the University Club in honor of the 1990 graduates. Another celebration began at seven o'clock in the evening at Southern Trace. This cocktail buffet was given by the 1990 graduating class with the help of Premier Bank in honor of their families. It was a beautiful reception with delicious hors d'oeuvres, fantastic music, and classy surroundings. Commencement was held at the Strand Theater amidst a "garden" of flowers and with the room filled by the sounds of the Red River Brass Ensemble. The pageantry of the ceremony was magnificent as the rainbow of robes entered the theater during the processional. Pageantry, celebration, excitement — all were a part of the awaited graduation weekend.

CLASSES

FRESHMEN

In September 1969, LSU-Shreveport opened its doors and in rushed the enthusiastic student doctors who wore the colors of their dynamic generation. During that era, most of this year's freshmen class were born.

Little Billy and Little Susie once told their daddies, "I want to be a doctor and fix bO-bos when I grow up." Were Billy and Susie double-monster misfits with dirty diapers or were their verbal announcements ethereal synapses sent from the heavens to their laryngeal nerves? A, B, A and B, neither A nor B. Why would anyone want to go to medical school? Of course on generic answer could be found. Some Might say altruism. Others may have parents who have fostered this notion with the best intentions for their child. What one really hopes to gain from medical school is a bit of respect for life and of the thoughts and feelings of others that makes us humble.

A famous physician once said, "Medical school is like riding a bicycle for the first time. No one can tell you how to do it, and once you get going, you're in for the ride of your life." We've all made friendships this year that will last. In finishing our first year, We hope that we have learned, given, or taken, something of value to share with our patients and with the society in which we live.

SOPHOMORES

This year was one of many challenges: staying awake through seven hours of lectures, cramming for tests every weekend, and finding something to do on our only night off — Monday. But we put our heads down and kept going, and looked up one day to find that it was summer. Our year of torcher was over. Now we eagerly await the coming year so that we too can join the ranks of overeducated scut-puppies.

JUNIORS

Yes, we have crammed two years of Basic Sciences into our pickled-by-formaldehyde brains, and we are ready to save lives. Give us a stethoscope, a white jacket and a pocketful of pens and we will stamp out diseases. But, the first few weeks of junior clerkships were not like one had anticipated - young student doctors relentlessly struggling to stay awake as we maximally flex our bodies for hours while retracting 100 pounds of subcutaneous fat during a 2:00 am emergency laparotomy, excitement and fear meshed together as we entered the examination room of our first Comprehensive Care Clinic patient, cautiously delivering our first newborn and then clutching it to near death for fear of dropping the slimy critter, angrily being awakened on Medicine call at 3:30 am to draw blood cultures for a temperature of 100.6 or frantically trying to get a history from a schizophrenic manic-depressant suffering from hepatic encephalopathy. The year is one of tremendous growth and maturing in our medical knowledge. Hard work is not without hard play - see ahead

SENIORS

It was hard to believe that four years of intense study and clinical training were over within such a short year. The year began with many seniors leaving for electives — some within Louisiana and some as far away as Oregon or Maine. As Christmas rolled around, most seniors were finished with residency application and well into the interview process. By March and the Match, they were tired of being students and infected with severe cases of SENIORITIS. With Graduation and the FLEX in sight, the Seniors of 1990 finished their student training and moved head first into the real world — a world of residency training, scheduled call, lack of sleep and vacation time, exciting new cases, and new responsibilities.

ALLIED HEALTH

The School of Allied Health Professions was (established) April 2, 1970 by the LSU Board of Supervisors. The school consists of five departments. Cardiopulmonary Science, Medical Technology, Occupational Therapy, and Physical Therapy are those programs which offer Baccalaureate degrees to their graduates, Communication Disorders being the one department to offer a Master's Degree. The educational programs begin at the junior and senior levels providing professional as well as clinical knowledge and experience. The students of the allied health professions are represented by a strong and supportive student government association, an integral part of the school. SOAP notes, a type of student newspaper/gossip column, keeps us in touch with other classes and aware of up and coming events. Those like Halloween Party; Christmas Party; and TGIF's are provided by the SGA and contribute to a healthy balance between work, study, and play.

CARDIOPULMONARY SCIENCE SENIORS

The education of cardiopulmonary science students relates to the performance of diagnostic tests, the administration of therapeutic agents and techniques, the performance of cardiopulmonary resuscitation, and the operation and maintenance of the instrumentation. The graduate provides a vital link between physician and the patient with cardiopulmonary disease or disability. Graduates also exercise judgment and accept great responsibility in performance of diagnostic and therapeutic procedures.

JUNIORS

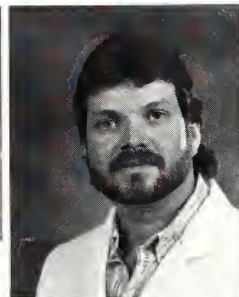

The CPS junior class has been very busy this year. It all began on May 30 in gross anatomy and physiology. We survived the summer and between study sessions we actually had fun. Then the fall semester began. Eight weeks of classroom work learning "everything we ever wanted to know about respiratory therapy but were afraid to ask" with a day off to educate school kids about the dangers of smoking at the Schumpert Community Education booth at the Red River Revel. For the second eight weeks we were distributed to Willis Knighton Medical Center, Willis Knighton South, Schumpert Medical Center and LSUMC for our clinical experiences. We topped off the semester with a Christmas hayride and bonfire in Zwolle. Our class is very close and we really have a good time together whether we are celebrating someone's birthday, having an end-of-rotation dinner party, playing student respiratory therapist in the hospitals, or even learning indications and contraindications for our treatments. This has proven to be a very exciting and productive year for all of us.

COMMUNICATION DISORDERS

The communications department began the new year by moving to a new location on Southern Avenue. We now have more therapy rooms, a larger office area, as well as a larger student room. Many of the students are active in the local chapter of the National Student Speech Language and Hearing Association. This organization has been involved in several projects, such as selling calendars, and sewing bibs for laryngectomee patients. The students enrolled in this program are able to obtain clinical experience in a variety of settings. These settings include hospitals, the public school system, and the C-BARC program. The 1989 school year graduated the largest class, 13 students, in the history of the department. These graduating students have ventured into various work settings, which includes hospitals, public schools, work with the mentally retarded, as well as employment with a private firm. The Louisiana Speech and Hearing Association held its state convention in Shreveport this year, at which many of the students participated. Many students were involved in registration, while others presented information regarding research projects in which they were involved

MEDICAL TECHNOLOGY

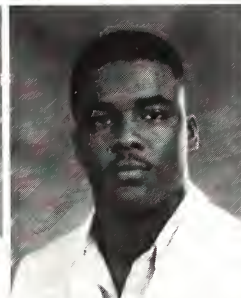

Medical Technology students spent thirteen long and stressful months together. These months were filled with Biochemistry, Hematology, Blood Banking, Microbiology, and clinical rotations, just to name a few. It is hard to believe that all of us finally got the "Big Picture." Although we came from different backgrounds, we united in the quest for our bachelor of science degree in medical technology.

Sometimes there were days when we would scream at each other, but the times of joy and laughter will be the ones remembered. We worked hard as a team, whether at quizzing each other on a test, or playing billiards at a local pool. We are all thankful for the friendships and acquaintances that we made.

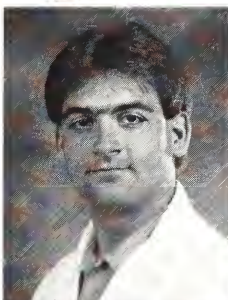

Now students and faculty members. Years from now, the memories of these months will bring to us a chuckle and a smiling smile.

OCCUPATIONAL THERAPY • SENIORS

Type, type, type ... presentations ... type, type, type ... clinic, more clinic ... parties ... laughs ... fun ... "gutter talk" ... whiney butts ... tears ... graphic demonstrations ... Cadillac ... frustrations ... hate ... love ... pediatrics ... Northwest LA Rehab ... t-shirts ... affiliations ... research papers ... sarcasm ... imitations ...

We began our senior year with a goal. The year was filled with lots to remember, both good and bad. A mark has been made on our lives - an impression which will be recalled with each patient we see. We reached our goal - a major goal. Thank goodness for graduation!

UNIORS

Eager to learn about the field of Occupational Therapy, our junior class dove into a summer of Anatomy and Physiology head first. After treading for three months, we continued our studies in the fall concentrating on the psychosocial aspect of O.T. and obtaining experience in fieldwork. The turn of the spring semester exposed us to the physical dysfunction aspect of O.T. and continued to prepare us for the anticipated summer affiliations. We are still working to achieve a balance between school, play, and self-care. We are half way up the mountain now, and although the journey is rough and the mountain is steep, with the help of the cherished friends we have made and the support of the faculty, I know we will make it to the top. And oh how magnificent the view will be.

PHYSICAL THERAPY SENIORS

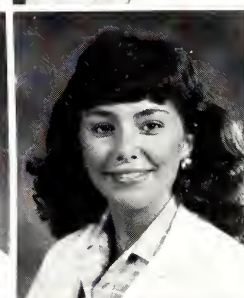

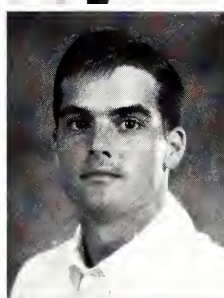

It's been two years since our initial incision, in gross anatomy, from "Alberta's" perineum to her iliac crests. In the months that followed, we learned that Physical Therapy is the least understood of all the health care professions. Now, armed with ten zillion volumes of text, and twelve billion hours of work in the clinic, we head to our long term affiliations. Once there, we hope to heal the sick, relieve suffering, educate the physicians, and munch a few pizzas. As the saying goes, "It ain't over 'til the fat lady sings." If you listen closely, way out in the distance, you can hear her clearing her throat.

PHYSICAL THERAPY JUNIORS

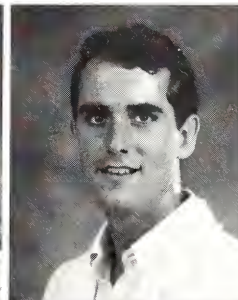

This has been a year of "New Discovery" in all aspects of the junior P.T. class consisting of nineteen eager students. Discovery of new friends with so many diverse personalities that there's never a dull moment with jokes in class, goodies baked, and always someone to help you out. Discovery of how much information there is to know someone from "head to toe" in Anatomy, Physiology, and Kinesiology this summer. When we met in June, we didn't realize those classmates would be constantly discovering each others postural faults and "deformities" in Patient Evaluation and Management and Analysis and Synthesis of Human Movement. Discovery of Blue MACS and clinic as we jumped immediately into our short term affiliations two days a week of the first semester. Discovery of Therapeutic Modalities, Pathology, Neuroanatomy, Medical Conditions, Manual Therapy, Orthopaedics, Pharmacology and Evaluation and Management of Cardiopulmonary. Discovery of well respected teachers who have shared a great deal of knowledge and showed us the wonderful world of Physical Therapy.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

A vital part of the school, the SAHP SGA has been extremely active in advocating for many rights, positions, and changes. Although we acquired our autonomy, the SAHP SGA continues to work together with the Executive Council to represent the students. Made up of six executive officers and a representative from each class, the SGA holds open meetings once a month to discuss issues and parties over supper at local eateries. It is a tough job, but the changes that can be made as a school continue to impress many important figures in the LSU system.

SOAP NOTES CORRESPONDENTS

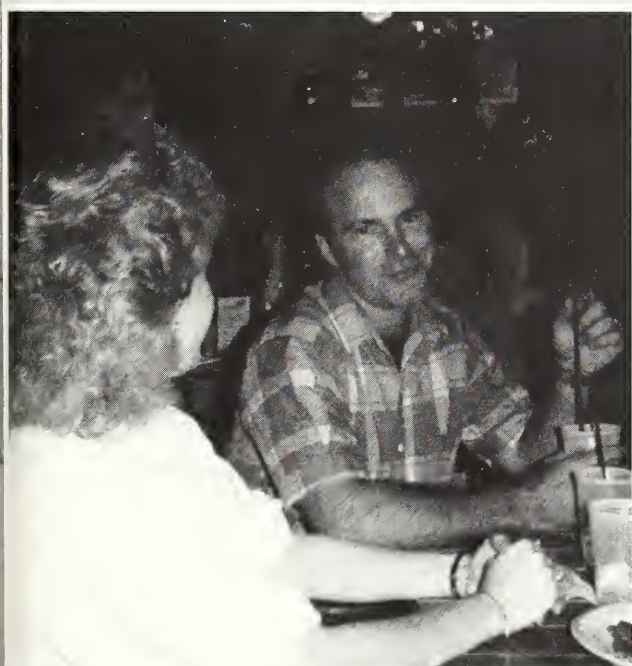

Who? What? Where? When? That is what the correspondents can tell you. Always lurking in the dark waiting for the latest "scoop", social faux faux, red hot news item or celebration the correspondents strive to keep the school informed. News items range from smut to more serious information such as meetings and parties. The staff is composed of a representative from each class, the SGA President, and the Advisor. Newsletters are published monthly throughout the year. The newsletter is known as the "SOAP Notes" and often provides a chance for laughs on those rare occasions when we kick back to relax!

T.G.I.F.'S

Whew! Another week has been survived! One step closer to the end of the semester. One step closer to graduation. By the end of the week we are ready to party and that is what we did. Our repertoire of party places included Chubby's, CPL, and, of course, "Cadillac"! Beer was the drink of choice and lots of munchies were also consumed. It was those little oases that kept us going.

HALLOWEEN PARTY

All the goblins and goons had a "scary" night at Todd and B.T.'s house with students dressed up in costumes, dancing PNF pattern outside and cajun dancing inside. Cajun cuisine was also prepared by "Dr. Don" of the sophomore medical student class. A small bonfire in the yard alerted the fire trucks to add to the excitement of the party. It was a good time seeing everyone out of classroom-scene dressed in every costume except students.

CHRISTMAS PARTY

December 8, 1989, 9:00 p.m., Bossier Civic Center . . .
A night to remember! History was made with the largest formal Allied Health party ever. With the lights set just right, everyone jammed to the beat of High Fidelity. Although drinks were almost non-existent after the battle with the higher ups, lots of beverages and food were enjoyed by all. Thanks to Helen the party was a success

SAHP GRADUATION

A goal met. A dream accomplished. Another step in life's big ball game. It all came true Saturday August 25, 1990 at the SAHP graduation ceremonies. Festivities included a Dean's reception at Eastridge Country Club with plenty of drink, good food, and entertainment. An awards ceremony was also held which involved many surprises for the students. The diplomas were accepted, tears were shed, congratulations offered, and another class was successfully educated.

GRADUATE STUDIES

GRADUATE STUDIES

Graduate education is not the learning of facts but of a process. Graduate school is a means of unlocking all the curiosity and creativity that years of formal education has stifled. It is knowledge of capacities, not limits. It is the existence of multiple possibilities, not dogma. It is long, solo hours of work that result in diligent investigation and deep introspection. It is not for those weak of heart. But it also has a wondrous element of child's play. The questions of childhood have not been answered fully, they have only been transformed and magnified. The toys have not been put away, they have only become larger and more expensive. But the answers to the questions still lead to another question and another question. A career with no limits? What more could you want?
